Welcome to April!

o start, I'd like to thank the wonderful women who attended The Post's private International Women's Day event at Magpies Waitara.

A special thankyou to Mayor Christine Kay for attending, Rebecca Kirkis as our guest speaker for telling her incredible tale of adversity, and Wendy Wang from Sunshine Millionaire Wine Group for donating some beautiful wine.

A congratulations are in order for our Yorkshire Tea giveaway winners. Enjoy a cuppa on us!

I'd also like to welcome our newest columnist, Karen Humphries. You'll have seen Karen featured before, and now she will be discussing the ins and outs of suviving cancer more personally.

April is a reverent month. Easter for Christians, Passover for the Jewish community, and ANZAC Day for all Australians. In this edition, we've featured an article from Australian War Widows about the raw emotion that war brings out of us.

The Post were lucky enough to visit the Hills Wildlife Sanctuary, and we've written about their tireless work saving Australian fauna.

Inside, you'll find a profile about J' Ma, The Post's new sales manager, an article about Pennant Hills Oval and the need for sporting infrastructure, and the Hornsby Ku-ring-gai Community College's Term 2 Course Guide.

The federal election is looming, scheduled for May 3. Electorates across the North Shore, its incumbents and challengers, are gearing up for an important fight. More to come on that front.

Until the next edition, estled in Dural, backed by Berowra Valley National Park, and on 35 acres of natural crown bushland, is the Hills Wildlife Sanctuary.

Established in 1977, the Sanctuary was formerly known as the Kangaroo Protection Co-operative, a not-profit organisation founded by a woman with a love for kangaroos. The valuable acres were given to the organisation by the state government under then-Premier Neville Wran.

Since, the Hills Wildlife Sanctuary has evolved, and takes on Australian wildlife to rehabilitate, care for, and rescue.

All funding comes from grassroots advocacy, philanthropic donations, and the community. Though native wildlife is under the protection of the crown, the Hills Wildlife Sanctuary and other organisations like it receive no government funding for their work. Federal government deems it a state issue. The state government is currently undergoing an extensive review into the wildlife rehabilitation sector.

During the Black Summer bushfires of 2019, the Sanctuary received an unprecedented number of calls, asking for assistance. Lack of funding and lack of resources meant that many requests had to be turned away, and the wildlife was left to suffer.

For the future, the vision for the thepost.sydney or many defence and war widows, the lead up to and commemoration of ANZAC Australian War Widows Inc.

Day is a time to reflect, not only on their husbands' service, but also the battles they brought home. Their husbands are now gone, but for many widows their grief and the trauma they helped nurse are still raw.

Australian War Widows Inc. (AWW) began with the smallest of beginnings, focusing on teaching weaving and handicrafts to members so they could augment the meagre pensions they received after WWII. The War Widows Guild was founded in 1945 by Mrs Jessie Vasey OBE CBE – a most remarkable woman.

It was she who chose the motto for the Guild. The Guild's motto exemplifies the spirit of Jessie Vasey. She founded a self-help organisation that assisted women widowed through war to come to terms with their loss and sacrifice, and to provide for themselves and their children. It also provided them with a social connection to women who understood only too well the grief and hardship they were suffering.

Jessie stated on numerous occasions that war widows should always be seen as the chief mourners at any service which honours our veterans and she fought long and hard to bring this to fruition. At numerous memorial services around the country, including ANZAC Day, AWW members are invited to lay wreaths on behalf of all war widows to honour their husbands.

On or around ANZAC Day there are many "Field of Remembrance" services throughout Australia that acknowledge war widows and their husbands who gave their lives in service to our country.

To find out where these services are being held please contact the AWW Inc. National Office at wwidowsnat@bigpond.com or by telephone on 0427 735 871.

On October 19 each year, AWW celebrates National War Widows

Day to acknowledge and remember the sacrifices that war widows have made. This day, which is her birthday, also honours Jessie Vasey and all the incredible work she did for war widows.

ANZAC Day and

War Widows

In July 2020, the Guild changed the name of the organisation to Australian War Widows Inc. and going forward AWW ensures that there is always an organisation to look after war widows in need and to advocate on their behalf to the government.

War Widows Motto:

"We all belong to each other. We all need each other It is in serving each other And in sacrificing for our common good That we are finding our true life."

From Dream to Screen:

J' Ma's Journey Into the World of Acting

Claudia Butjerevic

eonardo Dicaprio in Titanic was an awakening for starry eyed teenage girls worldwide. Years later, those girls are now women, and the effects are much the same.

Seeing the film as a young girl with her mother in Taiwan, J' Ma's was not immune to Leo's charm. Her starry eyes, though, were not awestruck with the actor, but at the acting. And so, a dream was born. J' Ma would become an actress.

As with the Titanic, this dream did not experience smooth sailing. When J' Ma informed her mother that acting was the career for her, the news was met with crude dismissal.

'This is going to break your heart,' says J' Ma, laughing softly. 'My mum said, "you'll never make it because you're not pretty enough". I was a young girl, that really hit me. Massively.'

So, with her mother's words of encouragement, J' Ma tucked the dream away, and stored it as a passing fancy that had no hope of coming true.

Moving from Taiwan to Australia alone when she was a teenager, J' Ma set about establishing herself, studying and working, and gaining citizenship. After many years and a tough breakup, when the weight of the dream became too heavy, J' Ma made a choice. It was either give acting a chance, or forever wonder what if?

'I thought I've got nothing else to lose. If I don't, I'll regret it for the rest of my life,' explains J' Ma.

She began acting classes, but J' Ma still had her reservations. As an Australian of Taiwanese descent, and with her mother's words hanging above her, J' Ma battled with imposter syndrome and insecurity over how she looked and how her accent sounded.

Alongside honing her craft in the acting classes, J' Ma has made lasting relationships with other like-minded talent. One of her dearest friends, Caitlyn, pushed her to keep striving, and told her that her accent and her heritage are what makes her so valuable and unique.

'Growing up here in Australia,

I never really saw anyone that looked like me on TV,' explains J' Ma. 'It's better now, it's slowly changing. I want people to understand that it doesn't matter where anyone is from. That's why acting is so special to me. Connecting people together, despite what they look like, is what really matters to me.'

J' Ma takes inspiration from other Asian actresses, stars like Lucy Liu and Michelle Yeoh.

IMAGE: J' Ma and Caitlyn

Tragically in 2021, J' Ma was heartbroken at the sudden death of Caitlyn. But J' Ma did not want Caitlyn's guidance, her acting expertise, and her encouragement to be lost. J' Ma now says she acts not for her own dream, but for Caitlyn, too.

'Caitlyn was so special,' says
J' Ma, her voice thick with emotion. 'I don't want people to forget her. She was so talented.
So beautiful. I act to remember Caitlyn, and I talk about her for other people to remember Caitlyn.'

She has been cast in 22 productions, including Ai En in Together (2020), and Jay in Mystika (2023). Most recently, she played Anya in Streets of Deceit (2025), and the eponymous lead in Zilia (2026).

She is the lead in a short film titled Vincent (2026) focused on domestic violence awareness. Upcoming for J' Ma is a project named Mind the Gap about a women's journey finding herself and her faith, and a Christian film called Proverbs 22:6, about the realities of child human trafficking.

J' Ma is grateful for the support of her agents. Paul Newlands from Crème Management in Brisbane, Theo Caesar in the United States, and Stanley from AWM in Taiwan.

The Power of Choice and Campaign Funding Realities

By Tina Brown Community Independent for Berowra Publisher, The Post

ave you ever heard the saying, "You don't know what you've got till it's gone? Elections aren't too dissimilar.

This community is where my journey began, I'm here because of you, and it's here where I want to have this conversation - with honesty, with heart, and with accountability.

I was a newcomer to politics, but I soon realised that my connection to this diverse, complex, and wonderful electorate was precisely why I was asked to run.

Berowra has been seen as a "forever Liberal seat," but the truth is, we've never been given a real alternative. And that's why I wake up every morning, crisscrossing this electorate, meeting small businesses, schools, families, multicultural communities, local clubs, and community advocates.

This isn't just politics to me - it's about changing the trajectory of our region for generations to come.

So, let's be honest with each other. Put away party loyalties and ask not just "are we better off after one term of this government?" but "are we better off after 20 years of successive governments?" I think we all know the answer. We are not.

Our climate is decaying. Cost of living is skyrocketing. Small businesses are closing. Parents can't afford childcare. Seniors are forced to ration medication. And aged care? It's a national disgrace. I know you want to see my policies, they have taken time because I have listened to you while writing them and sought experts to assist, now that the election is called, I will roll out my local plan for a better Berowra.

I am tired of the old parties, tired of the broken promises, tired of the game-playing while real people suffer. And I know you are too. But here's my promise to you: If I am elected, and the powerbrokers in Canberra come knocking, I will not sell our community short. I will fight tooth and nail to get what we deserve. Supply will only be given to the party that commits - in writing - to delivering for Berowra. Not in vague assurances, not in political doublespeak, but in concrete commitments that reflect the policies you have entrusted me to take to Canberra.

I love this community with my entire being. This is where I have raised my children. This is where I built my business, where I put down roots. I am not a career politician. I am a single mum, a business owner, and an advocate who is sick of the same old politics. I know what it's like to struggle, to fight for something better. I see young families crushed by rental stress, unable to buy a home.

Let's be honest: Julian has not delivered for this community. He hasn't fought for us in Parliament. He has voted with his party every single time. Don't take my word for it - look at his voting record on theyvoteforyou.org.

So, here's the choice: Stick with the devil you know, the same old politics and get the same result. Or be bold. Choose change. Choose a community Independent.

Tina Brown is a candidate in the upcoming 2025 Federal Election for the seat of Berowra

Election Date: Saturday 3rd May

Some ask about my early funding from Climate 200. Let me be clear: I received seed funding based on polling and community support. Those funds paid for the office on Peats Ferry Road in Hornsby and some start up expenses.

But since then, my campaign has been fully funded by you.

I am an Independent. No donor, no lobbyist, no corporation will ever come before my community.

Meanwhile, the Liberal machine is throwing everything at me - smears, attacks, desperate attempts to protect the status quo. I ignore most of it, because, frankly, the free publicity they give my campaign is worth its weight in gold. But I won't ignore the lies, the fearmongering, the cynical attempts to scare this community into submission. You deserve better than that.

This election is the most important in a generation. We can choose another three years of the same, of being neglected, of being taken for granted. Or we can choose something different. A representative who fights for you, who answers to you, who delivers for you.

Because if not now, then when?
And if not me, then who?

One Million and

Counting Shaping

A former cosmetic manufacturer, in 2007 Natalie realised the world was shifting, especially after watching the documentary An Inconvenient Truth about Al Gore's campaign to educate the masses about global warming. After searching for organisations that focused on climate action to no avail, Natalie decided to form 1 Million Women.

In the beginning, the heart and soul of 1 Million Women was about empowering women to make individual changes in their own households - reducing food waste, not buying fast fashion, and cutting down the power bill.

It was different then, as the climate discussion was both less considered, and less controversial.

'1 Million Women is empowering women to live climate action through everything we do,' explains Natalie. 'How we live, how we consume, how we vote... we have climate in our hearts.'

Women would sign up and have access to an activity centre. In that first year, 40,000 women joined the initiative. Now, 1 Million Women has hit their goal of one million participants, and has shifted its focus from individual behaviour to worldwide policy.

Claudia Butjerevic

Recently, 1 Million Women released its newest goal: to have one million houses electrified by the end of the next government

'We were just in Canberra a few weeks ago, a delegation of one million women,' says Natalie. 'We had 26 meetings from politicians, independents and Greens, Labor and Liberal... asking them to commit to the initiative.'

Helping households to electrify involves government help, through battery storage roll out or finding schemes for renters that landlords can be a part of or incentives to have solar installed.

'Only people that afford it can have an induction cook top or swap out their hot water system... we need to make energy affordable for everybody. It is ambitious but it must happen, says Natalie.

Whirl Recycling Keeping Electronics Out of Landfill Since 2019

ince 2019, local couple Lisa and Adrian Saunders have been on a mission to make electronics recycling free and accessible, helping thousands of households and workplaces clear out unwanted electronics.

They've kept 2.7 million items weighing over 8700 tonnes of electronics out of landfill.

Their service is straightforward and reliable — simply book a free pickup online and Whirl takes care of the rest.

From old laptops and cables to cameras, game consoles and mobile phones, they accept a wide range of items, making sure they're reused or recycled ethically, sustainably and safely.

Whirl loves to give unwanted electronics new life. To do this, Whirl connects used electronics with people who can reuse the unwanted items.

Items that can't be restored or reused are sent to recycling partners to break them down for manufacturing use.

"Most people don't realise how many things we can reuse that are sitting in that bottom drawer," says Lisa Saunders. "We make it easy to clean out the old stuff that's taking up space and gathering dust."

Whirl pickups are quick, professional, and often scheduled within a few days. There's no charge for collection, and businesses even receive a free certificate of data destruction for their records.

All data on devices is fully destroyed. If the item can be reused, it is reset to factory settings, or the hard drive is fully erased.

One of their most common questions is: "How can you run a business offering a free service?" Their answer is there needs to be a balanced approach. Items from their list provide enough revenue to cover costs. They also cover pick-ups of items that have little or no value.

For Lisa and Adrian, recycling electronics is their way to help create a cleaner, more sustainable future for the community. As Adrian puts it, "Every pickup helps reduce pollution, recover valuable resources, and prevent harmful waste from ending up in landfill."

Whether you're doing a spring clean at home or upgrading tech at work, Whirl is ready to help.

Book your free collection at whirlrecycling.com.au and join the growing number of Sydneysiders giving it a Whirl.

Passover

APRIL holds two major religious holidays.

Passover begins this year on the evening of the 12th and lasts until the 20th of April. Celebrating the escape of the Israelites from Egyptian slavery as denoted in the Torah, Passover involves rituals around the symbolic meal the Seder, during which unleavened bread and the story of Exodus is told.

Overlapping the Jewish Passover this year is a major Christian holiday.

Easter commemorates the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ, who was crucified by the Romans. In the lead up to Easter, Holy Thursday is the 17th of the month, Good Friday is the 18th, Holy Saturday is the 19th, and finally Easter will be held on the 20th of Synagogues and churches across the world will be filled with the faithful come April.

Residential Tenancy Law Changes in NSW

By Cecilia Castle Castle Lawyers at Asquith

esidential tenants will soon receive greater protection from legislative changes improving rental conditions implemented by the Residential Tenancies Amendment Act 2024 (NSW).

Changes to come into effect in the first half of 2025 include:

- Ending "no-grounds" terminations for renters, requiring landlords to provide reasons to end an expired lease. Such reasons will include breaches by the tenant, sale of the property with vacant possession, the need for significant repairs, renovations, or demolition, and the landlord needing personal use of the property.
- Limiting rent increases to one per year. Rental increase notices will change from 30 days to 60 days for leases of 6 months or less, and 90 days for leases over 6 months.
- Making it easier for renters to keep pets. Landlords will be required to reply to a request to keep pets within 21 days, with limited reasons to refuse a pet request. In addition, it is important to note that strata by-laws that ban all pets are not valid, and cannot be used by landlords as a reason to refuse pets.
- Preventing extra fees being charged at the start of tenancies, such as fees for background checks or preparing tenancy agreements.
- Ensuring renters can elect to pay their rent by way of bank transfer or Centrepay. Centrepay is a free Commonwealth Government facility for Centrelink customers.

Where disputes arise in relation to residential tenancies, an application can be made to NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal (NCAT) for determination of the dispute.

Hornsby Sports Struggle for Space:

A Growing Need for Facilities

Claudia Butjerevic

he need for more sporting facilities is weighing on local sporting clubs.

Pennant Hills Oval and its three fields are home to several different sports. During the summer, cricket uses the two oval turf pitches, and athletics uses the athletics track. Winter sees soccer, AFL, Rugby, and Hockey.

Coordination for these sports is left to Hornsby Shire Council. However, with overuse of the facility and conflicting schedules creates a tricky problem.

'As the change of season starts, it feels like we are encroaching more and more on other clubs needing the space,' explains Alice Clayton from Hornsby Districts Athletics and Race Director of Whale Rock Trail Run. 'Winters sports like AFL want to start training, but [Hornsby Districts Athletics] still have our finals coming up and need the space. Same things happen during the switch from winter to summer.'

Other issues involve storage space for equipment and upkeep of the facility. The long jump rubber turf at Pennant Hills Oval is nearing a decade in age and now resembles hard concrete with no bouncy spring left. Refurbishing the turf is imperative to prevent injuries for both adults and juniors. Alice explains that securing an infrastructure grant for Council to complete such an upgrade is difficult. Even receiving a defibrillator on site was an uphill battle as Hornsby Shire initially refused. Council only relented after hearing the pleas of a local father whose teenage son experienced a cardiac event at Pennant Hills Oval in June 2024.

For Alice and Hornsby Districts Athletics, the development of Westleigh Park would salve many of the problems. 'Westleigh is obviously a cause of conflict,' says Alice. 'It would give us two more ovals and an athletics track.'

Westleigh Park is in limbo, as last year the much-needed 36-hectare facility had funds reneged by the state government. A Development Application has been lodged and is currently pending.

All sports continue despite the limited space availability.

The inaugural Whale Rock Trail

Run made its debut on February 23, 2025, in Lane Cove National Park. Starting and finishing at Pennant Hills Park, the event featured a 6.5km fun run, 17km challenge run, kids' athletics event, and community stalls.

The event was the vision of Alice Clayton. 'I am passionate about enhancing physical and mental health and fostering community engagement through fitness,' Alice said. 'I've been astonished by how many locals have never stepped foot in these incredible trails and knew I had to make them accessible for everyone.'

Over 500 runners, aged 7 to 80, participated, with a 50% female participation rate. About 70% of runners were local, while others travelled from the Blue Mountains, Central Coast, Wollongong, and some from Europe. Local sport clubs were well represented, both as participants and through activation stalls hosted by AFL, rugby, and tennis clubs, strengthening community ties and promoting sport participation.

With strong sponsorship potential and opportunities for partnerships with local councils, WRTR 2026 is set to be even bigger.

My involvement with HKCC since 1984: From English Student to Papertole Tutor Marlies Davey (Linssen)

My late husband and I moved to Hornsby in 1984. Coming from the Netherlands a few years earlier we were interested in improving our English and when we saw an English course advertised at HKCC we both attended. It surprised us however that most of the students were born in Australia and somehow had missed out on a proper education in their younger years.

Being craft minded, I also enrolled in a HKCC pottery class for a few terms and thoroughly enjoyed this. At this time the classrooms were in the Hornsby TAFE, next to Hornsby Council offices and HKCC head office was in Jersey Street where the Fusion shop is located.

When we started a family, I stopped working and I began making Papertole (3-dimensional) pictures at home and sold these at markets or local art & craft shows. I had studied Art in the Netherlands and a lot of Papertole prints were by a Dutch Artist named Antien Pieck. Several people asked me if I could teach them this craft and speaking to Brian Milligan, who was the principal of HKCC at the time, he thought this would be a wonderful new course for the college. So, in February 1993, I started teaching Papertole at HKCC and am still doing so today, 32 years later.

In the earlier years of Papertole, I felt like I was teaching English as well, as many of my students came from China, Hong Kong or Japan. By naming all the items in the Papertole prints they picked up a lot of new words. Many of my students have returned term after term and a number of them are more like good friends now. Quite a few of my students have exhibited at the Royal Easter Show and have often won prizes and I am immensely proud of their achievements.

In the earlier years I had a day class and an evening class but I had to give up my evening class after my husband passed away so I could be home with my children.

Over the years I have attended other classes offered by the College e.g. Remedial Massage, Website design, Train the Trainer, Silver jewellery, Canva, Resin Cheese Boards and in the last couple of years with my Australian husband Leigh, Italian and Yoga. All these classes have been very enjoyable and informative, and the office staff and course coordinators have always been very friendly and helpful and I always look forward to the annual Art Show which is a great opportunity to catch up with everyone.

Italian Student Pasquale Vartuli

I joined an Italian Class at HKCC in 2022, for Saturdays, with my wife, Margie.

I was not a good student, even though we had an exceptional teacher.

My problem was that I still remembered - resented more like - when I was forced to attend Italian classes, on a Saturday, when I was still at school! When I retired from the workforce in Nov 2024, I decided to learn Italian, properly this time, so when the course was available on Wednesdays, I immediately enrolled, as I now could attend Wednesday classes.

I am hamstrung by the fact that my family, when I was growing up, only spoke the Calebrese dialect, which is not proper Italian. I am now on my way to speak proper Italian, so that I can "tell off" my relatives and other nosey people in the village I was born in, in 1957 - Arena, in Calabri.

We'd love to hear your memorable experiences at HKCC! If you have a special story or moment you'd like to share with us, please submit it via our website his year's Sydney Easter Show was again very successful for students of apertole Tutor Marlies Davey (Linssen).

Mariles has been teaching Papertole at Hornsby Ku-Ring-Gai Community College for the past 25 years and many of her students have received prizes and awards at the Sydney Easter Show and other shows in the recioin.

This year two of her Papertole students entered two pictures each and the results were:

results were:
Wei Hua Lu won two 1st Prizes and the overall standard of excellenc award. Wendy Paynter won one 1st Prize and one 3rd prize.

From Student to Teacher Janet Meggitt

I started first as a student and loved the class. I discovered a dance style that was elegant, fun and great exercise. My confidence grew, and some of us performed at the Middle Eastern Dance Festival and numerous other performances. I developed a self belief and when I was dressed in my costume, I became another person.

When the teacher announced that she was leaving, she asked me to take over the class. Over time, I realised that I needed to follow my heart and not try to emulate our former teacher. My confidence in teaching grew. I was a Primary School teacher at the time, however teaching adults is a completely different experience.

I encouraged my students to dress up for the class and invited a well known belly dancer to come which she did and brought with her beautiful coin scarves and other items which the women loved. HKCC was a life changer. I developed a love of everything Middle Eastern. Food, music, instruments and costumes. I have a beautiful collection of veils, coin scarves, jewellery and beautiful skirts. I LOVE sparkly clothes and sequins.

Years ago, when I was fitter and younger, I would perform at friend's birthday parties and was also invited to dance at a fund raising evening.

Belly dancing is a passion. I will be forever grateful to HKCC for instilling in me a love of dance.

I have many funny stories of my "belly dancing escapades". Maybe one day, I will write them all down.

The photo which I have included was a promotional shot. As I was doing casual teaching at my local school, I asked if the photo would not show to much cleavage. As it turned out, it did and the photo, which was a beautiful one, was printed in The Hornsby Advocate.

Thank you HKCC for the opportunity you gave me to grow and change. May you continue to offer your amazing classes.

HKCC Principal Inga Rosenberg

I first began working in the Adult Community Education sector in 2008, when I joined City East Community College, coordinating the Skilled Migrant Mentoring Program. It was incredibly rewarding to work on projects that made a meaningful difference in people's lives.

After relocating to Hornsby, I left the college in 2012 to explore other opportunities while raising my children. However, my heart remained with the Adult Community Education sector. In 2016, I reached out to Hornsby Ku-Ring-Gai Community College to inquire about potential vacancies. The following year, I was fortunate enough to be offered a casual position at reception, which later evolved into coordinating the Adult Community Education (ACE) Program, helping students with barriers to work or study build capacity.

I absolutely loved the work – from getting to know our students and watching them grow in confidence and skills, to collaborating with the many incredible community organisations that we partnered with over the years.

When I was offered the position of Principal in 2021, I felt honoured to be entrusted with this responsibility. It's been incredibly fulfilling to work with a team so passionate about supporting our community.

What I truly love about working at HKCC is how we respond to the pulse of our community. We listen, learn, and take action – whether by creating new programs, refining existing ones, collaborating with other organisations, or seeking funding to bridge gaps.

Reflecting on HKCC's 100-year history, it's clear that many of our core values have remained the same. While going through old photos and newspaper articles, I was struck by how familiar the stories felt – they could just as easily have been written today. A 1944 newspaper article, for instance, mentions free railway passes for students who couldn't afford to travel to the college. Even then, barriers to participation were acknowledged and broken down – a tradition of inclusivity and support that still drives us today.

As we celebrate HKCC's centennial, I'm reminded that this legacy of community-focused education has always been at our core. Just as we've done for the past 100 years, we'll continue to evolve, ensuring we meet the ever-changing needs of our students and community. I'm excited for what lies ahead and I'm proud to be part of a team that's shaping the next chapter of HKCC's story.

As we celebrate our 100th year, HKCC honours our enduring partnership with Mission Australia, a steadfast ally in supporting those in need within our community. Mission Australia provides vital nationwide services, including safe housing, support for disadvantaged children and families, empowerment for at-risk youth, and assistance for individuals with mental health issues and disabilities.

They are now offering a new FREE service for residents in the Northern Sydney and Northern Beaches areas, connecting individuals from culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) backgrounds and those experiencing homelessness to local GP services. Mission Australia links people to multilingual, bulk-billing GPs, along with a registered nurse offering free health assessments, including mental health support.

The Plumbing Hack Every Pet Owner Needs!

Rohan installing the self-filling bowl to the outside hose tap

If you've ever come home to an empty water bowl and a very thirsty pup, you know the guilt that follows. Hydration is essential for our furry friends, but keeping up with their water needs can be a hassle—especially during hot Aussie summers. That's where self-filling dog bowls come in, and as a plumber, I think they're a game-changer!

A self-filling dog bowl is a simple, clever addition to your home that connects directly to your water supply, ensuring fresh water is always available for your pet. No more refilling, no more worrying—just happy, hydrated pets!

We've installed these for plenty of local pet lovers, and the feedback has been incredible. One of our customers, Sarah from Baulkham Hills, told us, "It's been a total lifesaver!

We never have to worry about Koby running out of water, even on the hottest days."

My top installation tip is placing them in a shaded spot outdoors so the water doesn't heat up during Summer. You can purchase the bowls at most plumbing retailers like Reece, Cooks or even online at Amazon. Make sure only a professional installs it. I've seen too many DIY's turned 'DI Why Did I Do This?!?'.

The Perfect Sport for Older Australians

at Thornleigh Squash

Claudia Butjerevic

quash is one of the healthiest sports to play. It lowers blood pressure, increases muscle strength, improves flexibility, and helps with coordination and bone density. It can be played solo or with a partner.

To make the deal sweeter, squash isn't subject to the temper of the sky — it is an indoor sport that can be played year-round.

This all combines to make a great option for older Australians who are want to stay active and have an opportunity for socialisation.

Established in 1979, Thornleigh Squash and Fitness is teeming with both regular squash enthusiasts and novices. At Thornleigh Squash and Fitness, there is access to individual and group coaching, a Pro Shop for purchasing equipment, internal and external competitions, personal training, and restringing services. The facility has specialised balls that bounce higher than usual to aid those with joint issues when they play.

On the premises, there is a fully licensed bar, a large venue space, and Jimmy's Smash Burgers outside the door. All ages are welcome, and encouraged, to pick up a racket and play.

Harry, aged 68, has been coming to Thornleigh Squash since it opened its doors.

'You can get a lot more exercising in 30 minutes of squash than you can with anything else,' he says. 'There's a lot of people here in my generation and older.

One of the oldest squash players coming to Thornleigh Squash is Bruce, who is 88 years young, and has been playing squash for 70

'I enjoy squash, you get a lot of exercise very quickly,' says Bruce. 'I play and if I win, I win, and if I don't, I play another game.'

Hoy, a Malaysian immigrant in his 70s, loves the social aspect of coming to Thornleigh Squash. 'I love to joke with my partners... come and meet friends... it's a great way to de-stress.'

Nicki, 67, has played for 40 years but took a lengthy break before returning. 'I used to dream about it,' says Nicky, laughing. 'I like the tactics, trying got analyse what the other player is going to do... I don't have any friends who play squash, so the fact that Thornleigh Squash organises competitions means I can come along and always have someone to play with.'

Year-round, the centre has Social Round Robin matches every Saturday, Friday, and Thursday for casual participants and members. Visit than four standard drinks in one session and no more than ten standard drinks over seven days. At best it's a just a guestimate that doesn't account for your sex, age or weight.

Don't get me wrong, counting your drinks is a good start and definitely gives you some insight into your drinking habits. But let's be honest, if you're pouring your own drinks at home you're not relying on a measuring glass.

We measure addition by negative consequences. The harm you're doing to your body is one thing, but you also have to look at the damage your drinking has and is doing to your relationships, your career, your reputation, your bank balance. While they can be easily ignored, the negative consequences of your drinking grow over time, building one on top of the other.

To help you assess your drinking, Straight Talk Australia Counselling has developed a simple guide, ten direct questions to give you some straight answers about your drinking.

Join the Men's Table in North Sydney

en's Table has an intro session coming up in North Sydney.

The not-for-profit organisation has 250 Men's Tables across Australia, and over 2,500 men participating. In the North Shore alone, Hornsby has 2, Crows Nest has 2, Kirribili has 1, Lane Cove has 2, as well as Macquarie Park and Epping.

Men's Table offers men around the country the opportunity to find meaningful connections with other men, and engage in insightful conversations. The organisation wishes to combat the "mateship crisis" in Australia, where 1 in 4 men have poor social networks, and 1 in 3 have experienced periods of loneliness, according to data collected by Men's Table.

Intro sessions are known as "Entrees" and are for potential new Tables to be formed with men who are on waiting lists. Each Table consists of 8-12 men.

The upcoming sessions will be held at The Union Hotel on April 21 in North Sydney.

nology, like the Raizer Lifter Chair, proves invaluable.

The Raizer is a battery-operated, mobile lifting chair designed to gently raise a fallen person to a near-standing position within minutes. It's designed for ease of use, requiring only one assistant for assembly and operation, minimizing physical strain. The process is simple: the components are placed around the fallen individual, assembled with minimal disruption, and then activated to lift.

This technology not only prioritizes the safety and comfort of the person who has fallen but also protects caregivers from potential injuries. With a safe working load of 150kg and easy transport in two KarisLife lightweight bags, the Raizer offers a practical and efficient solution. Its sleek design allows for a dignified lift, preserving the individual's sense of independence.

This innovative chair enables a single assistant to safely lift a large adult with minimal physical effort, beyond a supportive hand. For a visual demonstration of the Raizer in action, please visit www.Karis-Life.com.au, or their showroom where you can witness firsthand how this technology can restore dignity and independence after a fall. And remember, as April is Falls Awareness Month, it's a perfect time to consider all aspects of fall prevention and recovery.

Cancellation of New Schools in Chatswood and St Leonards

he Minns Labor Government has cancelled two planned schools in Chatswood and St Leonards.

With a growing population, the previous Liberal Government under Dominic Perrottet announced and planned a primary school on the corner of Mowbray Road and Pacific Highway, and a new development St Leonards Education Precinct for preschool to Year 12 students.

The primary school, which has had $25 million invested in planning, is not being pursued by the state government. St Leonards Education Precinct has been deemed unnecessary given the capacity of existing surrounding schools.

'This is a shocking, short-sighted decision that I condemn and will fight every day until we have a state government that delivers the schools we need,' said Member for Willoughby, Tim James, in a statement.

From Small Business Owner to Business Platform Founder: Eileen Zhang and The Australian Business Elite Club s a small business owner, Eileen Zhang faced the common challenges of positioning and promoting her business effectively. This led to founding The Australian Business Elite Club (ABE) in 2018.

ABE has since evolved into a prominent business networking platform, bringing together industry leaders, business owners, and professionals. Its core values, the "three Cs"—connect, communicate, and collaborate—quide its mission.

ABE organises various business events, including The CEO Talks and Networking Events, providing members with opportunities to support one another, and promote their businesses.

EDITION 66 - APRIL 2025

In addition, ABE is committed to community and charity work. During COVID, ABE facilitated online seminars to help disseminate critical health information to the community, reaching over 100,000 people. ABE has also received multiple accolades, including the Outstanding Contribution Award for supporting the Salvation Army's 120th anniversary, and the Georges River Outstanding Community Awards from 2020 to 2022. Additionally, ABE supports The Lions Club of Sydney Synergy's charitable initiatives.

ABE continues to build on its success, aiming to further serve both business networks and the community.

Shark Infested Waters or Harmless Aquatic Playground?

Oly Lee-Young

he unique landscape of Sydney's Lower North Shore is predicated on the estuaries that surround it, the Lane Cove River to the south and Middle Harbour to the north-east. With an absence of nearby open-water beaches, these rivers are often used by locals for various kinds of aquatic activities, whether its sailing, fishing, kayaking or swimming. Tit goes without saying that these waterways are shared with a diverse range of marine animals - sharks included. So how much of a risk is there really?

It was only a few weeks ago on the first day of February that three bull sharks were spotted circling near the Spit Bridge, as reported by the Mosman Collective. In January 2024, a 29-year-old woman swimming at Elizabeth Bay was attacked by a shark and suffered a serious injury to her leg.

According to the Australian Shark-Incident Database (ASID), shark bites have steadily increased in Australia. The leading theory for this is due to the rise of people engaging in water-based activities.

In other words, more people mean more attacks.

Dr Vanessa Pirotta is a marine scientist and founder of 'Wild Sydney Harbour' which seeks to educate the public on Sydney Harbour's wildlife. In response to these findings Pirotta said, "We are more connected than ever, so if we hear of something like this, we will know about it."

Yet, ASID only records sharkto-human interactions, meaning there's very limited data that considers the threat posed to our furry, four-legged friends – dogs.

Local dog groomer Graham Manley has been working with dogs in the North Shore for the last two years. "I've had four dogs in the last six months [that were eaten by sharks] which is quite a lot in that space of time." According to Mr Manley, the first incident occurred in the Northbridge area where a Labrador puppy was fetching a stick in the bay and "disappeared without a splash." In Riverview, two Cavoodles were swimming around a boat jetty when they too disappeared underwater and in mid-January this year, a large dog was taken in the harbour off Longueville with no splashing.

Sydney Harbour is an important and regular habitat for the eastern Australian Bull shark. Research shows that they're the only potentially dangerous species of shark found all throughout Sydney Harbour.

Though for the most part, sharks stay out of our way. Dr Pirotta says sharks often get a "bad rap" from the media. "Sharks are doing their thing and we're doing our thing," she said. "We as humans sometimes forget the important ecological role that sharks play in the environment."

Although a bull shark encounter remains relatively rare, the experts recommend all water-users to exercise caution especially during the summer and autumn months when water temperatures are at their highest, during nocturnal and twilight hours, and where shallow waters are close to steep dropoffs.

Whilst the research shows how rare a shark attack is, it still pays to be shark smart next time you head down to the riverbank.

Beloved musical Annie has returned to Sydney at the Capitol Theatre.

Adapted from the 1924 comic strip Little Orphan Annie, the tale was transformed into a legendary musical with a book by Thomas Meehan, music by Charles Strouse, and lyrics by Martin Charnin.

Annie has been on Broadway, the West End stage, been subject to many revivals, and won Tony awards for Best Musical, Best Original Score, and Best Book of a Musical.

It has earned itself passionate fans and a famous reputation courtesy of the heartwarming story and iconic songs.

One such fan is Kristina Mac-Namara, who has been cast in the ensemble for the Sydney and Melbourne tour.

Living in Northbridge, Kristina has been involved with dance and theatre for most of her life, but fully committed herself to the industry in 2018. A student at the Neutral Bay School of Dance, alum of Brent Street, an acting coach, a singing teacher, a yoga instructor, Kristina has a wealth of knowledge.

'In my later 20s I rejigged my life and made a second surge into the industry,' explains Kristina. 'You have to be 100% in or it doesn't work.'

Since, Kristina has been involved with Chicago, West Side Story, American Psycho, the Great Gatsby, Rocky Horror Picture Show, and Follies. She had auditioned for Annie previously, but she wasn't ready at the time. Now, Kristina is on the ensemble for the 2025 session.

As a child, Kristina watched the movie constantly.

'It was to the point when as a child I thought "is this unhealthy"?' says Kristina, laughing. 'The show lends itself to the underdog, and everyone likes a kid getting a chance.'

Growing up in an orphanage run by the evil Miss Hannigan, Annie emerges from the slums to stay in a mansion owned by billionaire Oliver Warbucks for a holiday. On a mission to find her birth parents, Oliver helps Annie by offering a reward. Evil Miss Hannigan enlists the help of her brother to foil the quest and take the reward money.

'It is timeless, and kid friendly,' says Kristina. 'There is something about kids in the audience watching kids on stage, you see yourself up there... It is heartwarming to see bold kids defy odds and go from what they want.'

Alongside Kristina, the cast is packed with locals. Dakota Chanel (12, Balgowlah Heights) is one of four youngsters playing the titular role of Annie. Francesca Kong (13, Riverview) is among those playing Pepper. Camille Nko'o (11, Double Bay) and Bianca Papa (11, Narrabeen) will be among those playing Duffy. Ellie Lang (8, Fairlight) and Arianna Lorusso (8, Beacon Hill) will play Molly. Yeshi Jehru (12, Dee Why) and Skye Spiden (11, Hunters Hill) will play Friday.

'If there is anything that stands out to me from this production it's watching confident young girls, and confident young kids, they are so impressive. Sometimes parents might not know how to get kids off their iPads, but a show like Annie is a safe bet,' says Kristina.

founded by Lindfield Rotary Club (now managed by Ku-ring-gai Rotary). Over the years the Fun Run has grown and in 2024 was enjoyed by 2150 runners. The next Fun Run on 4th May is our 30th birthday, and we look forward to celebrating this with many of our previous runners.

As a Lindfield Rotarian, Max Elliot project-managed the event for the first 7 years and grew the numbers to 730 in 2002. Thanks to Max for providing much of the information included here.

The first run in 1996 had 10 km and 5 km distances. The area has several hills, and the 10 km run came to be known as quite tough, which regular runners regard as a challenge. In those days there was no 2 km and no special family entry, both of which attract many families today, making up half our current runners. Families love the opportunity to give their kids a taste of competition in a safe and family friendly environment.

There was some online registration in the early days, but many runners registered by filling in and posting a paper form. The Rotarians promoted the event using letter box drops, billboards and posters in shop windows

There was no electronic time recording. As you crossed the finish line you were handed a paper number which you took to the "time recording" desk to check in and fix your position. Prizes for distance winners were in cash, the trophy cups came later.

One of the very first cash donors was the Greengate Hotel, who still sponsor the event 30 years later! Thanks Greengate!

All of this was a lot of work, and our thanks go out to those Lindfield Rotarians whose efforts 30 years ago created the event that still benefits our charities today.

All Lindfield Fun Run nett proceeds are distributed to KYDS Youth Counselling service, Hornsby Ku-ring-gai Women's Shelter and Mentoring Men. The 2025 Lindfield Fun Run will be held on 4th May 2025 at Roseville Oval.

There will be runs of 10 km, 5 km and 2 km. You can learn more about the event and register at
